INTERIOR DESIGN PORTFOLIO

Spaces that feel as good as they look.

Selected concept studies in residential, commercial and wellness interiors.

VISUAL SILENCE / NAYEWAY

Founded by Nayely Petatan

The quieter a space, the more it can do.

Visual Silence is Nayeway's approach to reducing invisible pressure in a room: competing finishes, exposed storage, harsh light and unclear circulation.

PRINCIPLES

01

REVEAL LESS

Make daily function feel intentional by removing distractions and reducing visual competition.

02

LIGHT WITH PURPOSE

Use lighting to support atmosphere, comfort and clarity instead of glare or visual noise.

03

GIVE EACH ROOM A RHYTHM

Let material, layout and flow work together so the room feels resolved, not busy.

A small room.
A quieter impact.

THE BRIEF

Reimagine a single-user commercial restroom without letting the sink, surface, mirror and fittings compete for attention.

DESIGN RESPONSE

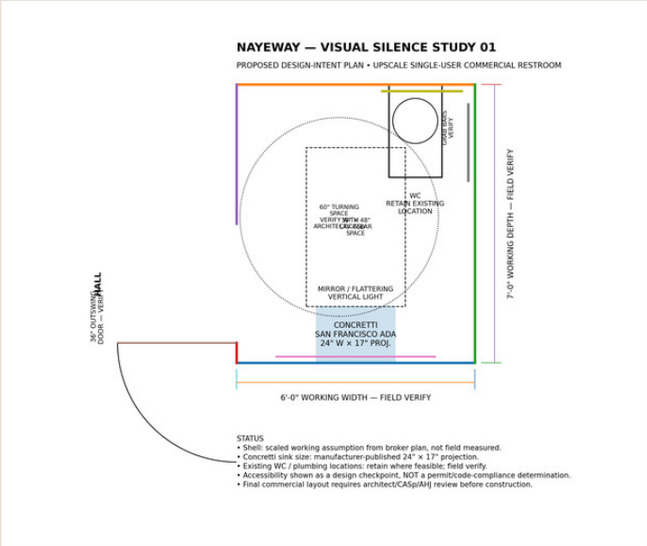

A sculptural Concretti sink becomes the focal point. Large-format surfaces, bronze fittings and a softly illuminated curved mirror support it rather than compete.

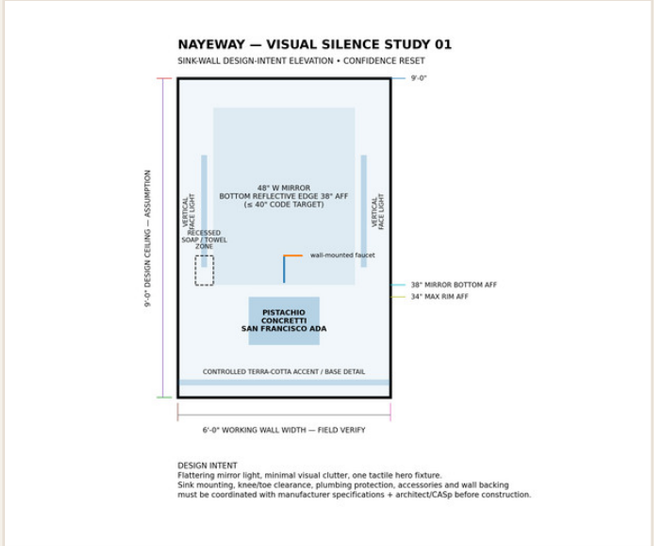

THE BIG MOVE

Let one element speak. Make everything else quieter.

From floor plan to finish image.

A cleaner process view showing how the bathroom concept moves from layout, to sink-wall intent, to the final visualization.

01 / FLOOR PLAN

Working layout showing the restroom footprint and sink-wall placement.

02 / SINK-WALL STUDY

Elevation defining mirror, lighting and the hero sink composition.

03 / CONCEPT VISUAL

Proposed atmosphere translating the drawings into a resolved guest experience.

Existing-condition reference and proposed visualization; not a construction result

Calm is a design decision.

WHAT CHANGED IN THE CONCEPT

- A quieter hierarchy of surfaces and finishes
- Warm materials with fewer competing edges
- Storage and everyday function considered early
- Softer layers of ambient and task lighting

The goal is not to remove character. It is to make the room feel resolved.

An arrival that lowers the volume.

RECEPTION CONCEPT

The first moments of a wellness experience should signal clarity, comfort and trust - before a session even begins.

DESIGN THINKING

Warm surfaces, integrated light and a legible path from arrival to the next activity create calm without feeling clinical.

The room is only one part of the experience.

Designing the transitions creates continuity between a welcoming reception, shared spaces and spaces for private restoration.

01 / RECEPTION - PROPOSED ATMOSPHERE

02 / COMMUNAL SPACE - PROPOSED ATMOSPHERE

The design language stays consistent: natural materials, clear movement, warm light and a quiet sense of purpose.

From first idea to a room that feels resolved.

A practical design partner for homeowners, architects, contractors and property teams.

01

CONCEPT + VISUALIZATION

Design direction, mood studies, layout explorations and presentation renderings.

02

MATERIAL + FF&E

Finish, fixture and furniture direction; sourcing research and decision schedules.

03

CLEAR HANDOFFS

Defined scopes, documentation for design intent and coordination with the wider team.

Let's make the next space feel easier to live in.
